

Our topic today is one on which we've already touched several times this semester.

materialism about persons is true, but even here there is room to believe in whether life after death is possible. Life after death seems pretty clear possible the possibility of life after death.

When we're discussing the nature of persons, we discussed the question of on present of soul survival or psychological views; matters are trickier if I don't tell us whether or not there is life after death. Let's

But of course even if life after death is possible, that turn to that question now.
