

Is life after death
possible?

Matters are less clear when it comes to our answers to the survival question which involve a materialist component.

A large orange circle with a soft drop shadow, containing white text.

psychological
survival: X is me just in case X stands in the right psychological
connections to me

soul survival:

X is me just in case

X is the same

immaterial soul as

me

These views differ in important ways, but they all agree that your survival depends on the survival of a certain physical thing.

Views of this kind face an obvious problem in making sense of the possibility of life after death. After death bodies decay (or are cremated). Doesn't that just show that the relevant physical objects won't survive your death — and so that, if one of the above views is right, you won't?

materialist survival

M

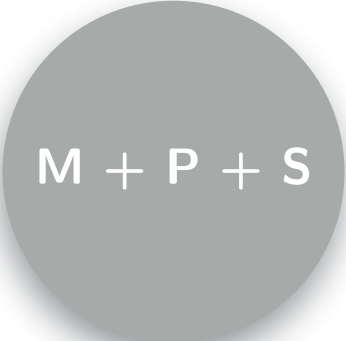

+

S

M

+

P

M + P + S

Is life after death
possible?

Is life after death
possible?

survival question which involve a materialist component.

Matters are less clear when it comes to whether to the survival question.

Matters are less clear when it comes to whether answers

psychological

survival: X is me just
in case X stands in the right psychological
connections to me

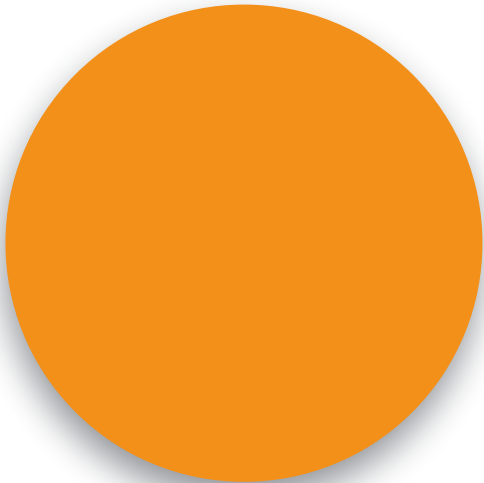

soul survival:

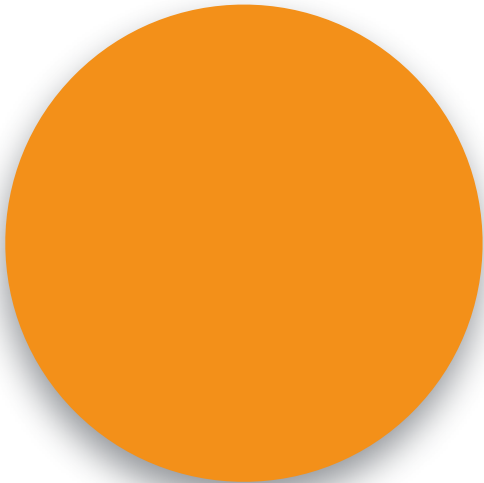

X is me just in case

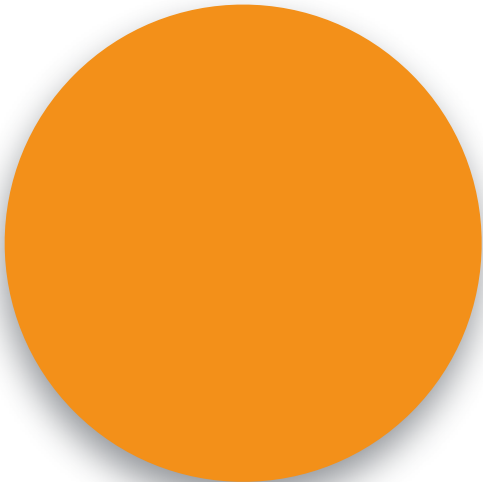

X is the same

immaterial soul as

me

physical things.

that your survival depends on the survival of a certain

These views differ in important ways, but they all agree that the relevant physical object won't survive your sense of the possibility of life after death. After death you won't?

bodies decay (or are cremated). Doesn't that just show death $\rightarrow$ and so that, if one of the above views is right,

Views of this kind face an obvious problem in making

physical things.

that your survival depends on the survival of a certain

These views differ in important ways, but they all agree that the relevant physical objects won't survive your sense of the possibility of life after death. After death you won't?

bodies decay (or are cremated). Doesn't that just show death $\rightarrow$ and so that, if one of the above views is right,

Views of this kind face an obvious problem in making