

1. There are situations which I cannot rule out which would make beliefs formed on the basis of sense experience false.
 2. If you cannot rule out a situation which would make P false, you should not believe P. (Doubt $\rightarrow$ No Belief)
 3. You should not form beliefs on the basis of sense experience. (1,2)
 4. Sense experience is your only source of information about the world outside of you.
-

C. You should not form any beliefs about the world outside of you. (3,4)

AN ARGUMENT FOR SKEPTICISM ABOUT THE EXTERNAL WORLD

The conclusion of this argument is quite surprising. Can it really be true that we should withhold forming any beliefs about the world around us?

There are situations which I don't want which would make believe for me don't be basic experience false.

2 If you cannot rule out a situation which would make P

experience: (1, 2)

3 You should not forget the basis of

4. Sensory experience is your only source of information about false, you should not believe P. (Doubt $\rightarrow$ No Belief)

CYou should not form any beliefs about the world outside of the world outside you.

you. (3,4)

experience says it is:

1. For any accurate experience, I can imagine a experience but in which my environment is not as the

experience: (2,3)

4 You should not forget the basis of situation which insists that we

5 Sensory experience is your only source of information about

3 If you cannot rule out a situation which would make P make believe for me don't be a snob experience false.

2. There are situations which I can't rule out which would

you. (4,5)

The conclusion of this argument is quite surprising. Can it really be true that we should withhold forming any beliefs about the world around us?

The conclusion of this argument is quite surprising. Can it really be true that we should withhold forming any beliefs about the world around us?