

What is justice?

This question breaks down into a number of sub-questions. We can ask what it means for a person to be just. We can also ask what it means for an international system of distinct societies to be just.

Today we are going to focus on the question of what it means for an individual society — which for our purposes we can take to be a nation — to be just.

This question is sometimes called the question of distributive justice, because it asks about the just distribution of goods within a society at a time.

What goods are we talking about?

nation — to be just.

Today we are going to focus on the question of what it means for mean for an international system of distinct societies to be just.

an individual society → which for our purposes we can take to be a

This question breaks down into a number of sub-questions. We can ask what it means for a person to be just. We can also ask what it

This question is sometimes called the question of distributive justice, because it asks about the just distribution of goods within a society at a time.