

1. We have no choice about what God knew in the past.
2. In the past, God had foreknowledge of our future actions.
3. We have no choice about the fact that God knows that in the future I will perform a certain action. (1,2)
4. If we have no choice about some facts, and those facts necessitate X, we have no choice about X.
5. God knowing that we will perform some action necessitates that we will perform that action.

C. We have no choice about whether we will perform our future actions. (3,4,5)

THE FOREKNOWLEDGE ARGUMENT

1. We have no choice about past facts.
 - 2*. In the past, there were truths about all of our future actions.
 3. We have no choice about the fact that God knows that in the future I will perform a certain action. (1,2)
 4. If we have no choice about p, and no choice about the fact that if p, then q, then we have no choice about q.
 - 5*. We have no choice about the fact that if it is true that I will perform some action, then I will perform that action.
-

C. We have no choice about whether we will perform our future actions.
(3,4,5)

The fatalist argument

Now that we have this

improved in one respect.

notice that it can be

argument on the table,

broader than it needs to

fact; we just need to

as sunnethat we have no

be. We don't need to

Premise(1) is more

as sunnethat we have no

God knew in the past.

choice about any past

choice now about what

It is tempting to reply to the Foreknowledge

what we are going to do,

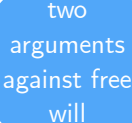

Argument by saying that

God does not make us

do anything.

while Goodes know

two arguments
against free
will

is fate
real?

why
believe in free will?

three
ways out

change.

So let's make a small

3. We have not checked that the past.

or if it were at its:

1 We have no choice about what God knew in and those facts need sit at X , we have

4. If we have no choice about some facts,

2. In the past, God had foreknowledge of perform certain action. (1,2)

inches at x.

action necessitates that we will perform

God knows that in the future I will perform future actions. (3,4,5)

C. We have no choice but to wait until

5. Good knowing that we will perform some

for fatadisn.

first let's think about how Edwards'

argument might be related to an argument

We'll shortly consider some ways of responding to Edwards' argument. But Suppose that someone did not believe in

Edwards' argument — but did believe that there were truths about all our future

God— and hence rejected premise (2) of similar to Edwards' argument?

actions. Could they give an argument with reference to the being of truth about

(5) Let's look at what happens if we

God only shows up in premises (2) and our future actions.

replace reference to God's foreknowledge

1. We have no choice about past facts.
 - 2*. In the past, there were truths about all of our future actions.
 3. We have no choice about the fact that God knows that in the future I will perform a certain action. (1,2)
 4. If we have no choice about p, and no choice about the fact that if p, then q, then we have no choice about q.
 - 5*. We have no choice about the fact that if it is true that I will perform some action, then I will perform that action.
-

C. We have no choice about whether we will perform our future actions.
(3,4,5)

The fatalist argument

2* In the past, there were trials about

4. If we have no choice about p , and no

that if it is true that I will perform

3 We have not heard that

1. We have no advice about past facts.

performa certai acti(1,2)

choice about the fact that if p , then q ,

all of our activities.

then we have the choice about q.

will perform various actions.

Goodbye to that little girl

0. We have already met the

5* We have established the fact

(3, 4, 5)

acai.oi.

1. The first part of the document discusses the importance of maintaining accurate records of all transactions and activities related to the project.

2. It then outlines the various methods used to collect and analyze data, including interviews, surveys, and focus groups.

3. The next section describes the results of the data collection and analysis, highlighting the key findings and trends.

4. This is followed by a discussion of the implications of the findings for the project and the organization.

5. The final section provides a summary of the overall findings and conclusions, along with recommendations for future research and action.

6. The document concludes with a list of references and a bibliography, providing a comprehensive overview of the research and its sources.

7. The entire document is presented in a clear, concise, and professional manner, ensuring that the information is easily accessible and understandable to all stakeholders.

8. The document is a valuable resource for anyone involved in the project, providing a detailed and comprehensive overview of the research and its findings.

some action, then I will perform that freedom that comes from fate.

Our first topic today is the oldest challenge to the existence of free will: the challenge to a Predictor. By the above line of thought, this person would lack free will. But

So now consider a possible scenario in which someone exactly like you would get that Predict did not take away their free will; it just shows them that they never had any. So they lacked free will before getting a Predict.

But this person was stipulated to be exactly like you. So you don't have free will,

either.

and the example of the Predictor — which seem to show that if there is such a

So far we've looked at two imaginary thought experiments—the story of Osmo, things as fate, then there is no free will.

Our question is: do either fatigue or foreknowledge pose a serious challenge to the reality of free will?