

In the reading for today, John Stuart Mill gives the following statement of his theory of value — his view of which things are goods and bads.

“The creed which accepts as the foundation of morals ... the Greatest Happiness principle, holds that actions are right in proportion as they tend to produce happiness, wrong as they tend to produce the reverse of happiness. By happiness is intended pleasure, and the absence of pain; by unhappiness, pain, and the privation of pleasure.”

gives the following statement of his theory of

and boards.

In the reading for today, John Stuart Mill

value — this view of which things are good