

A large red circle with a slight drop shadow, containing the text "moral realism" in white.

moral realism

moral nihilism

moral relativism

Another emotivist view is that this sentence is a kind of
disguised imperative:

‘‘Don’t lie!’’

Consider the following simple use of moral
language:

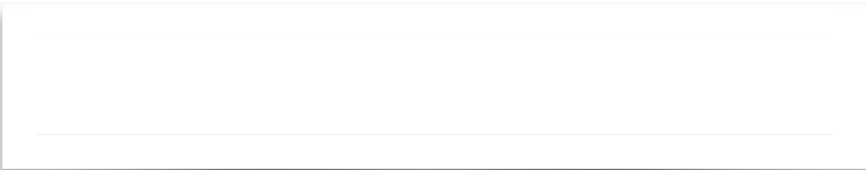

“Lying is wrong.”

Ayer's view seems to be that it is has the same meaning as something like the following:

‘‘Boo: lying’’

Another motivation is that this is a kind of

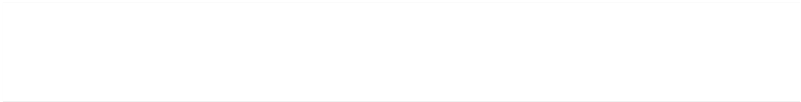

disguised imperative:

6. ID in t
11 e ! ;

Consider the following simple use of moral

language:

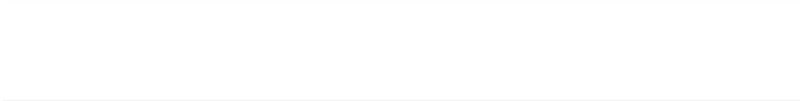

'Lying is wrong.'

following:

saying something like the

Ayer's view seems to be that it is has the

6 B.O.:

1yiii9;