

moral
realism

moral
nihilism

moral relativism

1. One ought to respect moral systems other than one's own.

-----

C. Moral realism is false.

Another option is that it means 'ought according to the standards of my community.'

Then the argument is equivalent to this one:

The truth of this premise does not imply the falsity of the conclusion. But it is hard to see why the truth of the premise would provide any reason to believe the truth of the conclusion.

1. People in my society approve of respecting moral systems
other than one's own.

-----

C. Moral realism is false.

systems rather than one's own.

1. One ought to respect moral

C. Main results:

Another option is that it means 'ought according to the standards of my community'.

Then the argument is equivalent to this one:

The truth of this premise does not imply the falsity of the conclusion. But it is hard the conclusion.

to see why the truth of the premise would provide any reason to believe the truth of

of representing neural systems

C: Mainreise:

ot her thar' s o w .

1. People in my society approve