

moral realism

moral
nihilism

A solid green circle with a subtle drop shadow, containing the text "moral relativism" in white, bold, sans-serif font.

moral
relativism

So global relativism appears to be an unstable position, and the moral relativist would better not rest their position on global relativism.

And now of course we can pose the same dilemma, and ask whether (GR++) is true absolutely, or only in the relative sense.

This is never going to end. The upshot is that in order for the friend of (GR) to explain how any one claim could be true in a relative sense we need to posit infinitely many increasingly complex facts about what theories some people accept. It does not seem plausible that people do in fact accept infinitely many increasingly complex theories of this kind.

(GR++) Some people accept a theory according to which some people accept a theory according to which (GR) is true.

So global relativism appears to be an unstable position, and the moral relativist would doubt their position on global relativism.

(GR_{++}) is true absolutely, or only in the relative sense.

And now of course we can pose the same dilemma, and ask whether

This is never going to end. This is that in order for the friend of infact accept infinitely many increasingly complex theories of this kind.

(GR) to explain how any one claim could be true in a relative sense we theories some people accept. It does not seem plausible that people do need to posit infinitely many increasingly complex facts about what (GRR++) Some people accept a theory according to which some properly accept a theory

+

ir

u

e

.

according to which (GR) is