

moral
realism

moral
nihilism

moral relativism

Second, the argument is in a way self-refuting. The simplest way to express it would be as follows:

1. One ought to respect moral
systems other than one's own.

C. Moral realism is false.

Suppose that the first premise is true. What does 'ought' mean here?

Second, the argument is in a way self-refuting. The simplest way to express it would be as follows:

1. One ought to respect moral
systems other than one's own.

C. Moral realism is false.

Suppose that the first premise is true. What does 'ought' mean here?