

moral
realism

moral
nihilism

A solid green circle with a subtle drop shadow, containing the text "moral relativism" in white, bold, sans-serif font.

moral
relativism

A large, light gray speech bubble with a thin gray outline. The bubble has a rounded top and a pointed tail at the bottom right. Inside the bubble, a quote is written in a black, monospaced, typewriter-style font. The quote is centered and spans eight lines.

“Those whose function is the use of their bodies and
nothing better can be expected of them ...
are slaves of nature.
It is better for them to be ruled thus.”

Juan Ginés de Sepúlveda

A large, light gray speech bubble with a thin gray outline. It has a rounded top and a pointed tail at the bottom left. Inside the bubble, a quote is written in a black, monospaced, typewriter-style font. The text is centered and spans eight lines.

“I will, in the name of humanity
which is outraged ...
dare to call in question and to denounce, with all the emphasis I can command, everything
that serves to

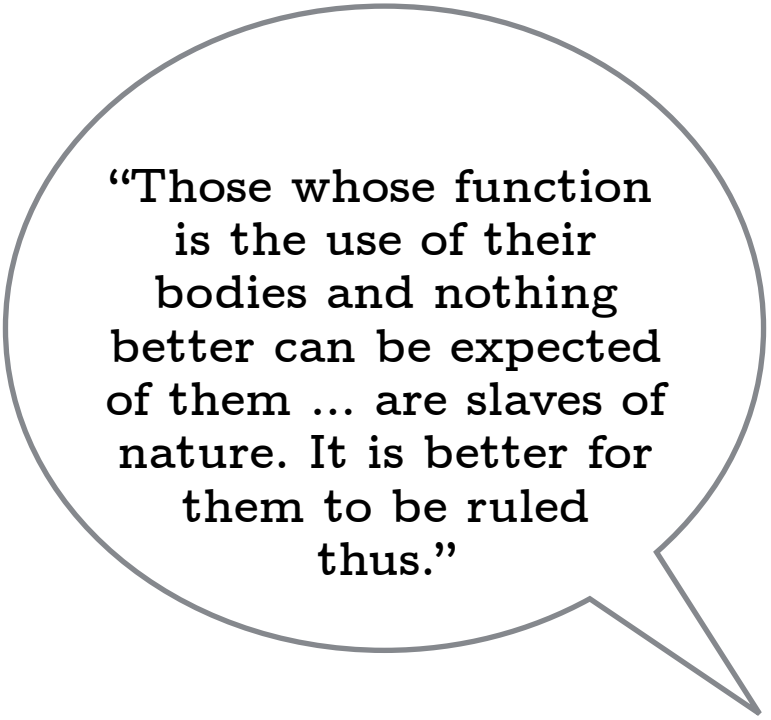

Here is a second, related problem. It is very hard to deny that there is some sense in which Douglass had the right side in the debate about slavery; that he was right, and that Sepulveda was wrong.

Frederick Douglass

about slavery; that he was right, and that Sepulveda was wrong.

Here is a second, related problem. It is very hard to deny that there is so men in which Douglas had the right side in the debate

A large, light gray speech bubble with a thin gray outline. It has a rounded top and a pointed tail at the bottom right. Inside the bubble, a quote is written in a black, monospaced, typewriter-style font. The quote is centered and spans eight lines.

“Those whose function
is the use of their bodies and nothing
better can be expected
of them ... are slaves of nature. It is better for them to be ruled
thus.”