

What makes the child, the adult, and the elderly person stages of the same person? The materialist says: because they are the same material thing.

Locke thought: it is because of psychological connections between the individuals.

psychological
connection

psychological
connection

John Locke gave one answer to this question.
His view of personhood can be illustrated by considering a few different stages in the lives of some people.

psycho-
logical
survival

materialist
survival

A solid red circle with a subtle drop shadow, centered on a white background. Inside the circle, the words "soul" and "survival" are written in a white, bold, sans-serif font, stacked vertically.

soul
survival

What makes the child, the adult, and the elderly person stages of the same person? The materialist says: because they are the same material thing.

Locke thought: it is because of psychological connections between the individuals.

What makes the child, the adult, and the elderly

Locke thought: it is because of psychological person stages of the same person? The materialist says: because they are the same material thing.

connections between the individuals.

Psycho-

10gicai1

confini

John Locke gave one answer to this question.

some people.

considering a few different stages in the lives of

This view of personhood can be illustrated by

materialist
survival

A large, solid red circle that fills the entire frame, serving as a background for the text.

soul
survival