

Our topic today is the dualist view that we are (either wholly or in part) immaterial things.

You may recall that we came up with two dualist answers to the identity question:

A large blue circle with a white drop shadow, containing the text "Simple dualism: I am an immaterial soul" in white. The text is centered and arranged in four lines.

Simple dualism: I am an immaterial
soul

A solid blue circle with a slight drop shadow, containing white text. The text is centered and reads: "Fusion dualism: I am a combination of a soul and a body".

Fusion
dualism: I am
a combination of a soul
and a body

Soul
survival:

X is me just in case X is the same immaterial
soul as me

Fusion survival:

X is me just in case X
has the same immaterial soul as me and is the same material thing as
me

For right now we're going to set aside the question of which of these views is better.

Instead, we're going to ask a more fundamental question: is there any good reason to believe in the existence of immaterial souls?

We have no
sensory experience
of immaterial
souls.

It is not
self-evident
that there are immaterial
souls.

We have no good argument for the existence of immaterial
souls.

If P is not self-evident and your senses don't tell you that P and you don't have a good argument for P , you should not believe P .

You should not believe in the existence of immaterial souls.
