

the basic
argument

allowable
evils

A large, solid orange circle serves as the background for the text.

what is omnipotence?

the
argument
reformulated

Does this 'paradox of the stone' show that God is not omnipotent?

Many have thought that it does not, and that instead it shows that premise (2) gives the wrong account of omnipotence. On this view, being able to do anything is a contradictory property, because it involves being able to bring about contradictory situations.

Either way, there is something that God
cannot do.

2. If something is omnipotent, it can do anything.

One might think, then, that omnipotence does not require being able to bring about contradictory or incoherent situations. Instead, it requires only the ability to bring about any situation which is genuinely possible:

2'. If something is omnipotent, it can bring about any possible situation.

Many have thought that it does not, and that instead it shows that premise anything is contradictory, because it involves being able to bring

(2) gives the wrong account of omnipotence. On this view, being able to do about contradictory situations.

cannot do.

Either way, there is something that God

2. If something is

do anything.

oninput, it can

One might think, then, that men do not require being able to the ability to bring about anything which is genuinely possible:

bringing about contradictory or inconsistent situations. Instead, it requires only is important, it

2'. If something

any possible

can bring about

evildoers.

9*. Some points less

There are two especially important arguments against belief in God.

the basic
argument

allowable
evils

A large, solid orange circle serves as the background for the text.

what is
omnipotence?

So attention naturally focuses on premise (5).

good, it always reminds

as in the visit card.

5. If something is wholly

allowable
evils

2'. If something is omnipotent, it can bring about any possible situation.

the 1990s, the number of people with a mental health problem has increased by 50% (Mental Health Foundation 2000).

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of people with mental health problems in the community. The Department of Health (2000) has set out a vision for the future of mental health services, which includes a focus on preventing mental health problems, supporting people with mental health problems in the community, and providing specialist services for people with severe mental health problems. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector. The Department of Health (2000) also states that the future of mental health services should be based on a partnership between the NHS, local authorities, and the voluntary sector.

3. If God exists, then God can

8. If God exists, then there is

do anything. (1,2)

prints it as it can.

5*. If something is wholly good,

6. If God exists, then God

7. If God exists, then God

(3,6)

2. If something is on it,

4. If God exists, then God is

1. If God exists, then God is evaluates God's air. (4,5)

onniipotent.

it can do anything.

no point less evi1. (7)

it always initiates as much elinitatesas much printless

C. God does not exist. (8,9) wholly good.

elinitates all points less vi1.

9*. Some principles exist.

A large, solid orange circle serves as the background for the text.

what is omnipotence?

the
argument
reformulated

2'. If something is omnipotent, it can bring about any possible situation.

9*. Since printless

exquisite.

2'. If something is omnipotent, it can bring about any possible situation.