A large, solid orange circle with a subtle drop shadow, centered on a white background. Inside the circle, the text "does free will explain all evil?" is written in white, lowercase, sans-serif font, arranged in three lines.

does free
will explain
all evil?

Suppose that you think that all of these assumptions are true. That does not mean that we have a satisfactory treatment of the existence of evil from a theistic perspective.

Summing up so far: we have seen that free will promises to explain how there could be evil in a world with an omnipotent and perfectly good God. It can explain that, it seems, if we make the following assumptions:

there are possible
situations which an
omnipotent
being cannot bring about

we have
free will

free will is a great good

the ability
to harm others
is a great good

That is because even if we might have an explanation of why there is some evil in the world, we do not yet have an explanation of why we find in the world the particular kinds of evils we do.
